

MEMBER CODE OF CONDUCT

This Code of Conduct has been prepared to outline the broad principles of legal and ethical business conduct expected of CICA members.

- ❖ A member will conduct their business in an ethical and legal manner so as to reflect positively on the industry and CICA. In doing so a member will act with integrity and in a responsible and professional manner in the spirit of good faith and fair dealing.
- ❖ A member, if supplying cranes and equipment, will ensure they are in a safe condition, that are maintained in accordance with the Australian Standards and manufacturers recommendations and that are suitable for the required activity.
- ❖ A member will exercise all reasonable care to ensure any machinery is operated in a safe manner in accordance with manufacturer's recommendations, Australian Standards and all local rules and regulations.
- ❖ A member will supply personnel who are trained and qualified and hold all required licences and certifications.
- ❖ Members will promote this Code with all personnel to ensure they act in accordance with the provisions of this code.
- ❖ Any breach of this Code should be reported to the CICA Board, via the CICA Chief Executive Officer. Members will be prepared to co-operate with any investigation of any potential breach of this Code.
